INTEGRITY & PRIDE

100 years of Craftsmanship

Gustav Stickley was a pioneer of the conservation ethic. Because we intentionally “overbuild” our products, they don’t break down and end up in a landfill. 100, 150, 200 years from now, the solid-wood furniture we make in the Stickley workshops this week will still be going strong. Our focus on durability, quality, efficiency, and long-term results permeates our manufacturing process as well. Each piece is made with honor, integrity and pride. That’s important because it will be part of your family for generations.
